I'm Sorry Part 5: I'm Scared

I'm Sorry

Kura: Okay, so I have all the stories for this series written, I just need to do some editing. Just so you know, they do end on a better term than when the series began. **

Sakura: So the angst won't last throughout the whole series, that done, enjoy! **

I'm scared." - Emma Overland and Jamie Bennett, Rise of the Guardians. ***

I'm scared

"It's okay, I'm not going to hurt you! We won't hurt you! To be honest...being alone, well...I'm scared."

The rider held a hand out to the white haired boy, a smile on his face. The white haired boy hesitated before taking the hand. They shook hands, and he wrapped his arms around the him. There was so much between them and the ground. So, it was no wonder why they felt scared.

"I don't know what you want...I don't know what you're going to do...just, don't leave me...I'm scared..."

_The white haired boy was unsure oof the stranger and his...pet. He wasn't sure if he should trust them. He didn't want tobe hurt again, but...life was full of risks. So, taking the outstretched hand, he shook it before wrapping his arms around the rider, fearing the space between them, and the ground. _

"Are you okay? I should have been more careful. It's just...I'm scared."

The brunette turned to the redhead. She bit her lips, hoping the other would forgive her, and fearing what the wilderness held in the pitch black darkness of the night. She hoped she wouldn't have to stay alone, because the fear, was eenough to bring her journey to an end.

"No, I should have been more careful, I should have watched where I was going. I know it may seem silly, but...I'm scared."

The redhead shook off the brunette's apology. She felt at fault. Still, the usual, brave, fearless, stamina she had, seemed to melt when she saw how dark it was. She hoped, that maybe together, she and the brunette would be able to make it through the night, despite their fears.

"We crossed paths, but in that, we found something we had in common. Something small, yet big. Something everyone feels. And it's stil in us. Two words. Just two words.
